Parking places Bosweide

The municipality has started adapting the parking spaces at Bosweide. The residents' association has listed the worst parking spaces. At first it seemed that this year there was only budget to refurbish 6 parking spaces, but our list has given the community of the Hague the opportunity to increase the budget and this year 23 instead of 6 parking spaces will be improved. Places were selected that were chosen in September and which the residents' association had put highest on the list. The works are planned to be completed by the end of October.

Wadi's more diverse

In the last conversation we had with the municipality about the wadis, the municipality stated that they are in favour of more biodiversity in the wadis, and that they would like to see native plants. Perhaps the wadi below, which lies on the Serpentine, is a good example of what the municipality means by more biodiversity. There are many different wild flowers in this wadi. In addition to a better soil structure of the wadi, the aim is also to provide food for insects, and in particular for the bees, since they are having a rough time at the moment. The municipality has committed to provide information about what biodiversity entails and which plants residents can best choose to place in the wadi. The municipality of the Hague would also like to promote that flowers in the wadis bring more 'colour' to the neighbourhood.

Consultation with government planned

A consultation with representatives of the district office of Ypenburg-Leidschenveen is planned for the 3rd of November and the annual political evening for the 17th of November, during which representatives of the various political parties, who are in city council of the Hague, are put to the test about what they have in mind for Ypenburg. Given the new Covid-19 measures, these meetings are likely to take place over the Internet. If residents have any points they would like to see being raised at these meetings, please let us know.

Rejuvenation and broadening Neighbourhood Prevention Team

The Neighbourhood Prevention Team wants to grow again. In the past period we have said goodbye to members. This has made it less easy to fill the present schedules. We would therefore like to add new members.

As a NPT'er you pay attention to the safety and quality of life in the neighbourhood. As residents, we speak to each other about any defects and nuisance and we report to the police and municipality if things strike us. We make rounds on foot and by bicycle through our neighbourhood. We do this during the day, in the evening and at night. On random days and times. So, you can meet us at any time of the day.

The minimum age is 18 years, but minors are allowed on patrol accompanied by an adult. As an NPT team we make an extra appeal to young people and expats who live in our neighbourhood. It would be good if there were also patrols of young NPT'ers in Bosweide. They may be able to make contact more easily with other young people who cause nuisance. More expats in the BPT team can improve contact with this growing group of Bosweide residents and make the explanation of how things work in the neighbourhood more focused and possibly easier.

Tree clearing started

The municipality has been clearing the marked trees for a week now. Bosweide is gradually being cleared of the selected trees. The trees are loaded onto trucks and removed, or temporarily stacked. It will probably take more than a month before the clearing is over.
